

THE SHAW GROUP INC.

INSIDER TRADING POLICY

For The Shaw Group Inc. and all Subsidiaries and Affiliates

Revised: March 31, 2011

INSIDER TRADING POLICY

The Shaw Group Inc. (the “Company”) is a public company with securities traded on the New York Stock Exchange (the “NYSE”) under the symbol “SHAW.” As a result, under federal securities laws, regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission (the “SEC”), and other related rules and regulations, the Company’s directors, officers, employees (including temporary and borrowed employees) and consultants, as well as persons under their influence and control, are prohibited from engaging in certain transactions in Company securities.

The following Insider Trading Policy of The Shaw Group Inc. (the “Policy”) explains the responsibilities of the Company’s directors, officers, employees and consultants to (i) maintain the confidentiality of nonpublic information concerning the Company, and (ii) refrain from transacting in the purchasing or selling Company securities while in possession of material nonpublic information concerning the Company. In some cases, this Policy goes beyond the minimum requirements of the law to avoid any appearance of impropriety and to protect both your reputation and that of the Company.

This Policy is intended to assist the Company’s directors, officers, employees and consultants in complying with their obligations under federal securities laws.

A. General Policy.

The Company’s Insider Trading Policy is as follows:

- (1) If any director, officer or employee of, or consultant to, the Company has material nonpublic information relating to the Company or any other company with publicly traded securities, including our customers or suppliers, obtained in the course of employment by, or association with, the Company (a “Business Partner”), neither that person nor any Family Member (as defined below) of that person may transact in Company securities or engage in any other action to take advantage of, or pass on to others, that information.
- (2) All directors, Section 16(b) executive officers their administrative assistants and employees who have access to the Company’s internal financial statements and operating results prior to their release to the public (collectively, “Insiders”) must pre-clear proposed transactions with the Company’s General Counsel and Secretary or his/her designee.
- (3) Other employees and consultants are prohibited from engaging in any transactions involving Company securities when they have material nonpublic information about the Company or a Business Partner.
- (4) With regard to 401(k) transactions, only Insiders (as defined by this Policy) are restricted from trading during a Blackout Period.

B. Definitions/Explanations.

1. What Transactions and Securities are Covered by this Policy?

This Policy applies to transactions in Company securities, including common stock, restricted stock, restricted stock units, options and warrants to purchase common stock and any other debt or equity securities the Company may issue from time to time, such as bonds, preferred stock and convertible debentures, as well as to derivative securities relating to the Company's securities, whether or not issued by the Company, such as exchange-traded options.

2. Who is Covered by this Policy?

The Policy applies to all employees, officers and directors of, and consultants to, the Company and members of their immediate families who reside with them or anyone else who lives in their household and family members who live elsewhere but whose transactions in Company securities are directed by them or subject to their influence and control (collectively referred to as "Family Members").

3. What is Material Nonpublic Information?

For purposes of this Policy, "Material Nonpublic Information" is material information that has not been previously disclosed to the general public through a press release or securities filings and is otherwise not available to the general public.

Information will be deemed to be "material" if there is a substantial likelihood that a reasonable investor would consider it important in deciding whether to buy, sell or refrain from any activity regarding Company securities. Any information that could be expected to affect the market price of the Company's securities, whether such information is positive or negative, should be considered material.

By way of example, and without limitation, the following information, in most circumstances, may be deemed material:

- annual or quarterly financial results;
- internal estimates or projections;
- a significant change in earnings or earnings projections;
- unusual gains or losses in major operations;
- negotiations and agreements regarding significant acquisitions, divestitures or business combinations;
- new equity or debt offerings;
- a significant increase or decrease in dividends on Company securities;
- significant litigation exposure due to actual or threatened litigation;
- major management changes; and
- backlog and sales information.

Because trading that receives scrutiny will be evaluated after the fact with the benefit of hindsight, questions as to the materiality of particular information should be resolved in favor of materiality. If you have any questions whether information you possess is material or has been publicly disclosed by the Company, you should consult the Company's Insider Trading Compliance Officer, who is at present the General Counsel of the Company.

4. Who is a Section 16(b) executive officer or Insider?

A Section 16(b) executive officer or Insider is a Company officer named as an executive with the SEC by the Company.

C. Restrictions/Prohibitions.

1. Non-Disclosure of Nonpublic Information.

a. General.

Company directors, officers, employees and consultants who possess nonpublic (whether material or not) information concerning the Company must safeguard the information and not intentionally or inadvertently communicate it to any person, including without limitation, Family Members or friends, unless the person has a need to know such information for legitimate, Company-related reasons and agrees in writing to maintain such information in strict confidence. A director, officer, employee or consultant who improperly reveals Material Nonpublic Information to another person can be held liable under the anti-fraud provisions of federal and state securities laws (primarily Section 10(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Exchange Act") and Rule 10b-5 thereunder) for the trading activities of his or her "tippee" and any other person with whom the tippee shares the information. The tippee may also be held liable. In addition, persons who misappropriate Material Nonpublic Information (including, without limitation, Family Members, close personal relations, friends, legal or financial advisers, partners and others, including tippees) and who trade, directly or indirectly, on the basis of such information may be held liable under federal securities laws.

b. Methods of Preserving Confidentiality.

Consistent with the foregoing, all Company directors, officers, employees and consultants should be discreet with nonpublic information and not discuss it in public places where it can be overheard, such as elevators, restaurants, taxis and airplanes. Employees are strictly prohibited from posting or responding to messages containing information regarding the Company on Internet "message boards," "bulletin boards," "blogs," Internet "chat rooms" or in similar online forums.

It is recognized that it may be necessary to disclose nonpublic information to third parties, such as lenders, attorneys, independent accountants and other outside advisors of the Company. Such disclosure should be made in an appropriate manner, in coordination with the General Counsel, and, where applicable, pursuant to confidentiality agreements with such recipients.

2. Prohibition of Insider Trading.

The anti-fraud provisions of the federal securities laws generally prohibit persons who have a duty not to disclose material, nonpublic information from trading in securities of a company for which they have such information.

In addition, the anti-fraud provisions prohibit fraudulent, manipulative or deceptive trading practices. Persons who violate these prohibitions are subject to potential civil damages and criminal penalties. The civil damages can consist of disgorgement of any illicit profits and a civil penalty of up to three times the profit gained or loss avoided. The criminal penalties can be as much as $1 million and 10 years' imprisonment per violation.

No director, officer, employee or consultant of the Company, and no Family Member of any such person, shall engage in any transaction of Company securities, including any offer to purchase or offer to sell (other than pursuant to a trading plan that complies with SEC Rule 10b5-1 and that has been pre-cleared by the Company's Insider Trading Compliance Officer, as described below) while in possession of Material Nonpublic Information regarding the Company.

If public disclosure is made of such Material Nonpublic Information, trading may commence two days after the date such information is publicly disclosed, subject to the pre-clearance/blackout procedures set forth below.

3. Pre-Clearance/Blackout Procedures.

a. Blackout Period.

Even when an Insider does not possess any Material Nonpublic Information, Insider transactions in Company securities are prohibited during a Blackout Period. The Company has implemented certain trading restrictions it believes are necessary to avoid the appearance of improper trade and to protect the Company's integrity and reputation in the investment community. The Company will permit Insiders and the Family Members of Insiders to trade in Company securities, subject to the pre-clearance procedures set forth below, only outside of a defined period of time the period (the prohibited period, a "Blackout Period").

A "Blackout Period" begins five full trading days before the end of each of the Company's fiscal quarters and fiscal year-end¹ and ends two full trading days following release of the Company's reported earnings for the relevant period. A "trading day" is a day on which the New York Stock Exchange is open. For example, for the third fiscal quarter, the Blackout Period will begin five trading days before May 31, 2011 (May 23, 2011), and end two full trading days following the day that the reported earnings for the quarter are released. If earnings are reported on June 30, 2011, the Blackout Period will end at the close of trading on July 5, 2011, so trades may begin on July 6, 2011. If the Company releases earnings and if the Company files with the SEC its annual report on Form

¹ First Quarter ends November 30th, Second Quarter ends February 28th (or 29th in a leap year), Third Quarter ends May 31st, and Fourth Quarter/Fiscal Year ends August 31st.

10-K on October 20, 2011, at 9.30 a.m., the Blackout Period begins August 24, 2011, and ends on October 25, 2011.

The Blackout Period helps Insiders and others avoid any improper transactions. The Blackout Period begins when the Company's quarterly earnings become apparent and ends after sufficient time has elapsed so that the market has fully absorbed the Company's earnings announcement and information provided in the associated conference call. Trading in the Company's securities outside a Blackout Period should not be considered a "safe harbor," and Insiders should use good judgment at all times.

Insiders may trade in Company securities and certain 401(k) elections at any time other than a Blackout Period but only after obtaining written pre-clearance to do so. This Policy applies to those 401(k) transactions that include: (i) an election to increase or decrease the percentage of periodic contributions that will be allocated to the Company stock fund, if any; (ii) an election to make an intra-plan transfer of an existing account balance into or out of the Company stock fund; (iii) an election to borrow money against a 401(k) Plan account if the loan will result in a liquidation of some or all of a participant's Company stock fund balance; and (iv) an election to pre-pay a plan loan if the pre-payment will result in allocation of loan proceeds to the Company stock fund.

Insiders must always pre-clear proposed transactions with the Company's Insider Trading Compliance Officer or his designee. Once designated as an Insider, a person maintains that status until he receives notice from the Insider Trading Compliance Officer or his designee that he no longer is an Insider.

In addition, the Company shall have the right to impose additional special Blackout Periods during which no trading in Company securities may take place.

b. Pre-Clearance Procedures.

Insiders (and the Family Members of such persons) must pre-clear in writing any and all transactions in Company securities with the Company's Insider Trading Compliance Officer, or an officer or officer(s) designated in writing by such Compliance Officer. If you are in doubt regarding this procedure, please call the Company's Insider Trading Compliance Officer. Pursuant to this pre-clearance procedure, you must contact the Company's Insider Trading Compliance Officer in advance of the contemplated transaction by sending to the Company's Insider Trading Compliance Officer at the Company's Baton Rouge office, a written request, outlining the details of the proposed transaction, that such transaction be approved. A Company Form for your use in pre-clearing transactions with the Company's Insider Trading Compliance Officer is attached to this Policy as Exhibit A and is also located on the "Compliance, Policies and Procedures" page on Shaw Net. The Company's Insider Trading Compliance Officer shall respond in writing to the request, either clearing the transaction or, if the request is submitted at a time when material information about the Company is not publicly available, simply responding that the "time is not right" for the transaction, without giving the reason. The purpose of this pre-clearance requirement is to assure that there is no Material Nonpublic Information relating to the Company at the time of the proposed transaction and, if applicable, to avoid violations of the "short-swing profit" prohibition of Section 16 under the Exchange Act. Additionally, directors, officers, employees and consultants entering into these transactions are required to have their brokers report back to the Company the details of the completed transactions.

c. Rule 10b5-1 Trading Plans.

Any director or Section 16(b) executive officer who desires to implement a trading plan under SEC Rule 10b5-1 must first pre-clear the plan with the Insider Trading Compliance Officer. As required by Rule 10b5-1, a director or Section 16(b) executive officer may enter into a trading plan only when he or she is not in possession of Material Nonpublic Information and then only outside of the Blackout Period. Transactions effected pursuant to a pre-cleared trading plan may be effected during Blackout Period and will not require further pre-clearance at the time of the transaction.

4. Certain Exceptions.

a. Stock Options Exercises.

Exercises of stock options under the Company's stock option plans (but not the sale of the underlying stock) may be transacted during a Blackout Period, but such exercises must be "pre-cleared" by the Insider Trading Compliance Officer prior to the exercise. The Blackout Period prohibition will apply, however, to any sale of stock as part of a broker-assisted "cashless" exercise of an option or any market sale for the purpose of generating the cash needed to pay the exercise price of an option.

b. Company 401(k) Plan.

This Policy does not apply to purchases of Company stock in the Company's 401(k) Plan resulting from periodic contributions of money to the plan pursuant to payroll deduction elections. This Policy does apply, however, to certain elections by Insiders that may be made under the 401(k) Plan, including: (i) an election to increase or decrease the percentage of periodic contributions that will be allocated to the Company stock fund, if any; (ii) an election to make an intra-plan transfer of an existing account balance into or out of the Company stock fund; (iii) an election to borrow money against a 401(k) Plan account if the loan will result in a liquidation of some or all of a participant's Company stock fund balance; and (iv) an election to pre-pay a plan loan if the pre-payment will result in allocation of loan proceeds to the Company stock fund.

Those employees and officers who are not Insiders are allowed to conduct 401(k) transactions during a Blackout Period, provided they do not possess any Material Nonpublic Information. Any 401(k) transactions that are made based upon Material Nonpublic Information are strictly prohibited.

c. Gifts.

Bona fide gifts of Company securities may be effected during a Blackout Period, but such gifts must be "pre-cleared" by the Insider Trading Compliance Officer in advance of the transaction.

d. Exchange of Shares to Company.

The transmission of restricted shares or restricted share units back to the Company for the purpose of paying taxes or other purposes between the Company and the employee are allowed at any time.

5. Other Restrictions.

a. Short-term Trading.

Any short-term trading of the Company's securities by Insiders may unduly focus on the Company's short-term stock market performance instead of the Company's long-term business objectives. For these reasons, if Insiders purchase Company securities in the open market, Insiders may not sell any Company securities of the same class during the six months following the purchase. Shares purchased through the Company's employee stock purchase plan or the employee stock option plan are not subject to this restriction.

b. Short Sales.

Short sales of the Company's securities evidence an expectation that the securities will decline in value, and therefore signal to the market that the seller has less than complete confidence in the Company or its short-term prospects. In addition, short sales may reduce the seller's incentive to improve the Company's performance. For these reasons, this policy prohibits short sales of the Company's securities by Insiders.

c. Short Swing Transactions.

Directors and certain executive officers of the Company must also comply with the reporting obligations and limitations on short-swing profit transactions set forth in Section 16 of the Exchange Act. Officers and directors who purchase and sell Company securities within a six-month period must disgorge all profits to the Company even if they had no knowledge of any material nonpublic information.

d. Publicly Traded Options.

A transaction in options is a bet on the short-term movement of the Company's stock and therefore creates the appearance that trading is based on inside information. Transactions in options also may focus attention on short-term performance at the expense of the Company's long-term objectives. Accordingly, this Policy prohibits Insiders from transacting in puts, calls or other derivative securities of the Company on an exchange or in any other organized market.

e. Hedging Transactions.

Certain forms of hedging or monetization transactions, such as zero-cost collars and forward sale contracts, allow a person to lock in much of the value of his or her stock holdings, often in exchange for all or part of the potential for upside appreciation in the stock. These transactions allow the holder to continue to own the covered securities, but without the full risks and rewards of ownership. Without the risks and rewards, Insiders may no longer have the same objectives as the Company's other shareholders. Accordingly, this Policy bans Insiders from engaging in hedging transactions.

f. Restrictions on Certain Purchases of Company Securities.

In order to prevent market manipulation, the SEC adopted Regulation M and Rule 10b-18 under the Exchange Act. Regulation M generally prohibits the Company or any of its "affiliated purchasers" from buying Company securities in the open market during certain periods while a distribution is taking place. Rule 10b-18 sets forth guidelines for purchases of Company securities by the Company or its "affiliates" or "affiliated purchasers" while a stock buyback program is occurring. While the guidelines are optional, compliance with them provides immunity from a stock manipulation charge. The Company requires compliance with Regulation M and Rule 10b-18.

g. Margin Accounts and Pledges.

The Company monitors Insiders' purchasing of Company securities on margin, borrowing against any account in which Company securities are held, and pledging Company securities as collateral for a loan. Securities purchased on margin may be sold by a broker without the customer's consent if the customer fails to meet a margin call. Similarly, securities held in an account that may be borrowed against or are otherwise pledged (or hypothecated) as collateral for a loan may be sold in foreclosure if the borrower defaults on the loan. A margin sale or foreclosure sale may occur at a time when the pledgor is aware of material nonpublic information or otherwise is not permitted to trade in Company securities.

Accordingly, the Company's Insider Trading Compliance Officer or his designee must approve the pledge by an Insider who wishes to pledge Company securities as collateral for a loan. The Insider must demonstrate the financial capacity to repay the loan without resort to the pledged securities. Any person who wishes to pledge Company securities as collateral for a loan must submit a request for approval to the Chief Financial Officer and the Company's Insider Trading Compliance Officer or his designee at least two weeks prior to the execution of the documents evidencing the proposed pledge.

D. Individual Responsibility.

Every Company director, officer, employee and consultant has the individual responsibility to comply with this Policy and not engage in a transaction in Company securities if he or she has knowledge of Material Nonpublic Information, even if the proposed transaction could be executed outside of a Blackout Period and has been pre-cleared by the Company. The pre-clearance restrictions and procedures and Blackout Period are intended to help avoid inadvertent instances of improper insider trading, but appropriate judgment should always be exercised by each director, officer, employee and consultant in connection with any trade in Company securities. Accordingly, a director, officer, employee or consultant may, from time to time, have to forego a proposed transaction in Company securities even if he or she planned to make the transaction before learning of the Material Nonpublic Information and even though such person believes he or she may suffer an economic loss or forego anticipated profit by waiting.

E. Section 16 – Reporting Requirements and Disgorgement of Profits on Short-Swing Transactions.

You should be notified if you are an employee that must comply with Section 16 of the Exchange Act. If you have any questions about whether you must comply, please contact the Company's Insider Trading Compliance Officer or his designee.

The rules on recovery of short swing profits are absolute and do not depend on whether a person has Material Nonpublic Information.

F. Form 144 Reports.

Company directors and certain executive officers designated by the Board of Directors are required to file Form 144 before making an open market sale of Company securities. Form 144 notifies the SEC of the intent to sell Company securities. This form is generally prepared and filed by a broker and is in addition to the Section 16 reports required to be filed with the SEC.

G. Restrictions on Certain Purchases of Company Securities.

In order to prevent market manipulation, the SEC has adopted Rules 10b-6 and 10b-18 under the Exchange Act. Rule 10b-6 generally prohibits the Company or any of its "affiliated purchasers" from buying Company securities in the open market during certain periods while a public offering is taking place. Rule 10b-18 sets forth guidelines for purchases of Company securities by the Company or its "affiliates" or "affiliated purchasers" while a stock buyback program is occurring. While the guidelines are optional, compliance with them provides immunity from a stock manipulation charge. The Company's policy is to require adherence to Rules 10b-6 and 10b-18. Adherence to this Policy will be effectuated through the pre-clearance procedures set forth above.

H. Applicability of Policy to Inside Information Regarding Other Companies.

This Policy and the guidelines described herein also apply to Material Nonpublic Information relating to other companies, including the Company's Business Partners, when that information is obtained in the course of employment with, or other services performed on behalf of, the Company. Civil and criminal penalties, and termination of employment, may result from trading on inside information regarding the Company's business associates. All employees should treat Material Nonpublic Information about the Company's business associates with the same care required with respect to information related directly to the Company.

I. Communications with the Public.

The Company is subject to the SEC's Regulation FD and must avoid selective disclosure of Material Nonpublic Information. The Company has established procedures for releasing material information in a manner that is designed to achieve broad public dissemination of the information immediately upon its release. Pursuant to Company policy, only the executive officers who have been authorized to engage in communications with the public may disclose information to the public regarding the Company and its business activities and financial affairs. The public includes, without limitation, research analysts, portfolio managers, financial and business reporters, news media and investors. In addition, because of the risks associated with the exchange of information through such communications media, employees are strictly prohibited from posting or responding to messages containing information regarding the Company on Internet "message boards", "bulletin boards," Internet "chat rooms" or in similar online forums. Employees who inadvertently disclose any Material Nonpublic Information must immediately advise the Insider Trading Compliance Officer or his designee so the Company can assess its obligations under Regulation FD and other applicable securities laws.
